

Taqman® Terms

These terms and conditions (“Taqman Terms”) apply to your use of products and materials containing or using Taqman® primer sequences, primer designs, primer assays, primers, probe sequences, probe designs, probe assays or probes (collectively “Taqman Primer Materials”), provided by Life Technologies Corporation (“we” or “us”). These Taqman Terms are included as Supplementary Terms to the Terms and Conditions of Sale and together with our quotation (if any) create a binding contract between you and us for the purchase and sale of our Taqman Primer Materials. In the event that these Taqman Terms conflict with any terms and conditions of sale applied to products containing or utilizing Taqman Primer Materials, these Taqman Terms shall control.

You understand and agree that we have and retain all right, title and interest in and to the Taqman Primer Materials, and by way of example retain exclusive rights to sell or commercialize (as a catalog product or otherwise) such Taqman Primer Materials and to provide services using the Taqman Primer Materials. All custom laboratory products and/or custom laboratory services derived from or incorporating the Taqman Primer Materials, as well as the Taqman Primer Materials themselves, are provided on a non-exclusive basis and we reserve all rights for us and our affiliates to provide third parties with primer sequences, primer designs, primer assays, primers, probe sequences, probe designs, probe assays and probes that are identical or similar to any Taqman Primer Materials, provided that we will not disclose confidential information (if any) received from you. The Taqman® Materials are not provided with service rights or other rights for commercial use. If you require additional use rights, please contact our outlicensing department at outlicensing@lifetech.com.